ARRANGING SECOND FAIR FOR PARNELL

COMMITTEE MEMBERS FROM DIFFERENT WARD SCHOOLS

CLUB MEMBERS MET

Have More Than 115 Pigs for the Show—Potatoes Do Best Under Straw

It was decided at a meeting at Parnell Saturday afternoon that a permanent committee be appointed for the purpose of carrying on the second annual fair. It was decided that the members of the school board should call meetings of the patrons in all the ward schools of the consolidated district and that districts each elect a member for the permanent committee. This committee will have charge of the general arrangements and management of the fair. It will arrange the dates.

Roy A. Kinnaird, county agent, was present at the meeting, as were W. H. Burr, superintendent of the Parnell schools last year, and Mr. Broadbent, who is to be superintendent next year. Each of these three men pledge their support to the fair and will work and co-operate with the people of the community to secure the best results in the fair.

Mr. Burr had considerable of the management of the fair in hand last year. He is now working at the State Teachers College and will be here during the fall and be able to help along with the fair.

The members of the Pig and Potato Clubs met with those interested in the fair. The work that the organizations are doing was checked up on. The Pig Club has more than 115 pigs for the show that will be held as one of the features of the fair. The Parnell Pig Club is the only local one in the county.

It was brought out at the meeting by samples of potatoes shown by members of the club that potatoes raised under a mulch of straw grow larger than those that do not have a mulch but which are cultivated.

Following are the members of the Potato Club who were present: Frances Boedecker, Florence Boedecker, Gerald Boedecker, Clarence Hutchison, Rose Mayfield, John Kennedy, Ciara Clutter, and Loren Hart.

Mr. Kinnaird spoke to the club members at the meeting.

MARYVILLE ON FEDERAL AID ROAD

HIGHWAY COMMISSION MAKES DESIGNATIONS TODAY.

IS NOT PRIMARY ROAD

But It Is Said to Be Same Thing—Will Mean Much to This Section.

The highway commission at Jefferson City today gave out the recommendations of Consulting Engineer R. J. Windrow and Highway Engineer B. P. Pierpmeier of the primary road designations. The road through Maryville to the Iowa line at Braddyville was selected as a hard surface road to be built by federal aid with state funds. It was not designated as a primary road but according to information secured it will be the same thing as a primary road. Another road from St. Joseph in a northeastern direction to Iowa was named by the engineers at the Jefferson highway. This road will be the same as the Maryville road.

One of the primary roads to be named was the road from St. Joseph to Hannibal.

Public hearings will be held and protests considered by the state highway comission until August 1 when the roads will be officially designated.

The value of such a road to Maryville and to Nodaway County is almost beyond estimation. It will mean to the community practically the same thing that the coming of a railway meant more than a half a century ago.

WOMAN DROWNED IN GRAND RIVER FLOOD NEAR STANBERRY

Foreman of Ditcher Outfit Bound His Wife and Children to Tree with Bed Sheet

Miss Anna Logan of Omaha, Neb., was drowned early Monday morning four miles northeast of Stanberry on the Grand River. It was said today that it was not known yet whether her body had been recovered or not. Reports regarding the matter were conflicting.

Miss Logan was cook for a gang of men with a ditcher. The flood caught the party asleep at the ditcher. Fred Dorrough, who was in charge of the outfit, carried his wife and children to a nearby tree and bound them to the branches at a height so that they would be safe from the waters using sheets from their bedding. He then attempted to rescue Miss Logan but she was carried away by the waters.

The cook shack was carried away.

The rainfall was between 4 and 4½ inches. Considerable stock and grain was lost along the Grand River bottoms.

Stanberry is without train service, with the exception of what few trains are passing through Maryville, the Wabash tracks being out east of there.

Burial Will Take Place in Chillicothe—Maryville People Unable to Attend on Account of Bridges

Funeral services for J. Woodson Peery, who died Monday night in Albany, were held at the Peery home in Albany this afternoon at 4 o'clock, according to a message received from Albany by M. A. Peery of this city. The body was to be taken on the even-Burlington train at Albany this evening to Chariton, Ia., and then to Chillicothe, Mo., where burial will take place. As Albany is without train service from the south and as many bridges are out it was necessary to take a round-about way in getting to Chillicothe.

Many members of the Nodaway Co. bar as well as Judge John Dawson and others were intending to attend the services but as so many bridges are out it is impossible to get to Albany by automobile.

TO BE MET AT CONCEPTION

Some Speculation as to Whether Reed Was Able to Get to Albany Today

Senator James A. Reed is expected to be in Maryville tomorrow afternoon for an address to be given tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock. Members of the committee in charge of the Reed meeting here received no word today as whether or not Senato Reed will be in Albany this afternoon and tonight. The telephone wires between here and Albany are down.

Senator Reed was to have spoken at Albany this evening. As there is no train service from the south into Albany and as a number of bridges were washed out in that community by the high water, there was some speculation as to whether Senator Reed could get to Albany to fill his engagement.

The arrangements were for several of the Maryville Democrats to meet Reed at Conception tomorrow at noon. Reed was to be driven there by his Albany friends. A dinner is to be given at Conception in honor of Senator Reed and several Maryville people have been invited to attend. A several minutes speech is scheduled to be given to the people of Jefferson Township after the dinner by Senator Reed.

The committee in charge of the Reed meeting here is composed of: James B. Robinson, George B. Baker, John B. Ruh, George S. Baker, Roy F. Hanna, James Hanna, Pickering; John McDowell, Graham; R. L. SERVICE ON BURLINGTON

Indications Are Through Service on This Line Will Be Had Tomorrow—Many Men at Work.

Only four passenger trains a day are now entering Maryville and it may be the last of the week before the other trains and through service can be had.

The Wabash reported today that it will take at least until Saturday before either No. 11, the morning train, or No. 14, the night train, can run through. There are track washouts at Evona, Pattonsburg and Gallatin. No. 12, the train at 10:52 a. m., is now running as far East as Stanberry and is returning as No. 3 to Council Bluffs.

The stub trains on the Wabash, Nos. 50 and 51, have been taken off. It is understood these trains were taken off on account of the strike of shop crafts on the railroad.

The Great Western is now operating its trains on about schedule time. The Great Western is tied up between St. Joseph and Kansas City on account of track being washed out south of Leavenworth.

W. E. Goforth, agent at the Burlington, reported this afternoon the indications were that the Burlington would be open through to St. Joseph in the morning. The trouble on this line is between Arkoe and Barnard. There are about 100 men and two work trains, one from the North and one from the South, working on the track between those two places today. Fifty-five cars of rocks, cinders and gravel have been taken down there for use on the track.

The Burlington is now running their train from St. Joseph as far as Barnard while the train from Croston can run as far South as Arkoe.

A dispatch from St. Joseph today stated flood conditions there and in surrounding towns were alarming following a downpour of rain last night. The flooded streams in that section began to recede after Sunday's cloudburst when the second rain began. Two feet of water was reported in the main street of Whitesville.

The fill was originally a narrow one and since the washes it is so narrow that it is dangerous.

Mozingo On a Rampage

Miles of fence were washed out along the Mozingo River in the big storm Sunday night. It is reported that in many places they are out for a half-mile. Old residents along the Mozingo say that they never saw it as high as it was Monday morning. Much wheat and oats were lost. The stream ran pretty lively from Monday until last night and this morning it was bank-full again, because of the rain last night, but had not gone out over the bottoms again.

A number of chickens were lost at the John Dowden farm near the Mozingo Sunday night. The rain came down so rapidly that it did not drain away fast enough and the chickens were drowned in the lot.

The Platte river at Guilford had fallen eighteen inches since Sunday's flood the train service of the Great Western is now good.

Guilford reported 1.5 inches of rain last night and the water is still all over the bottom.

It is reported three men were saved at

President in Proclamation Forbids Hampering Trains

Washington, D. C., July 12.—President Harding, in a proclamation issued at the White House late last night, directed "all persons to refrain from all interference with the lawful efforts to maintain interstate transportation and the carrying of the United States mails."

In the proclamation, which was issued after a day in which continued reports had reached the postoffice department of interference by railroad strikers with mail trains, the president invited the co-operation of all public authorities, state and municipal, and the "aid of all good citizens," to uphold the laws and to "facilitate those operations in safety which are essential to life and liberty and the security of property and our common public welfare."

The peaceful settlement of controversies between shop craft employes and carriers, it was stated, "in accordance with law and due respect for the established agencies for such settlement are essential to the security and well zeing of our people."

The president took the position that men willing to maintain the operation of railroad trains in order to transport mails "have the same indisputable right to work that others have to decline to work."

The text of the proclamation follows:

"A proclamation:

"Whereas, the United States railroad labor board is an agency of the government, created by law and charged with the duty of adjusting disputes between railroad operators and employes engaged in interstate commerce; and

"Whereas, the United States railroad labor board has recently handed down decisions, one affecting the wage of the shop craft employes, the other declaring the contract system of shop craft work with outside agencies to the contrary to the intent of the transportation act and, therefore, that such practice must be discontinued; and,

"Whereas, the shopcraft employes have elected to discontinue their work, rather than abide by the decision rendered, and certain operators have ignored the decision ordering the abandonment of the contract shop practice; and

"Whereas, the maintained operation of the railways in interstate commerce, transportation of the United States mail have necessitated the employment of men who choose to accept employment under the terms of the decision and who have the same indisputable right to work that others have to decline to work; and

"Whereas, the peaceful settlement of controversies in accordance with law and due respect for the established agencies of such settlement are essential to the security and well-being of our people;

"Now therefore, I, Warren G. Harding, president of the United States, do hereby make proclamation, directing all persons to refrain from all interference with the lawful efforts to maintain instate transportation and the carrying of the United States mails.

"These activities and the maintained supremacy of the law are the first obligation of the government and all citizenship of our country. Therefore, I invite the co-operation of all public authorities, state and municipal, and the aid of all good citizens to uphold the laws and to preserve the public peace, and to facilitate those operations in safety which are essential to life and liberty, and the security of property and our common public welfare.

"In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

"Done at the city of Washington, this eleventh day of July, in the year of our Lord, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-two, and of the independence of the United States the one hundred and forty-seventh.

"WARREN G. HARDING,
(By the president)

Ivory Carving Popular Trade Among Eskimos

One of the most widely followed professions in the far north is that of the ivory carver, and it is not only an industry but a pastime as well, filling many of the long evenings of the lengthy Arctic winter. The Eskimos have never attained the perfection of the Chinese artisans, due partly to the greater crudity of their methods and partly to the fact that they use the ivory of the walrus instead of that of the elephant, but some of their products nevertheless show a great measure of artistry. The stock articles which the Eskimos manufacture are beads, cribbage boards, napkin rings, and crochet needles. They are made usually from the outer portion of the walrus tusk, as the interior is a bony substance, mottled in appearance. The most prized articles are fashioned from walrus ivory dug up from where it has lain for ages and become semi-fossilized.

Telephone service of the Peoples Telephone Union was somewhat improved today. It was possible to call from Maryville to Arkoe, Bedison, Skidmore, Graham, and Orrsburg. This is a greater number of towns than it has been possible to ring any day so far since the storm Sunday night.

The Hanamo company has located and repaired some of its cable troubles and fewer phones are out of order today than at any time since the storm.

LOCUSTS WILL INFEST MUCH FARM ACREAGE.

Washington, July 12.—The seventeen-year locusts will be uninvited guests this year in Illinois and Southern Wisconsin, accordingly to predictions by agriculture Department experts.

The characteristic whirring noise of the insect also will be heard in Indiana, on the border of Lake Michigan, and in the southern tier of counties in the State of Michigan, it was said, while a big brood will appear in Eastern Iowa.

NEW BEDFORD COPS MUST SALUTE MAYOR OF TOWN

New Bedford, Mass., July 12.—Salute the Mayor!

Members of the local police force are practicing their best salutes as a result of a mandate issued by Chief Doherty, ordering his force to salute the Mayor—or get into trouble.

"The Mayor is head of the police force. What he says goes. Hereafter he'll be saluted or somebody will suffer!" says Chief Doherty.

WHOLE GRAIN SEED IS IMMUNE FROM WEEVILS

Washington, July 12—Whole grain or seed of medium degree of hardness is immune from attack by the broad-nosed grain weevil, prevalent in Florida and found occasionally in Georgia and South Carolina, according to the Department of Agriculture.

The rice weevil, however, with which it is commonly associated, begins the attack, making it a simple matter for the weaker insect to reach the softer parts of the grain, experts said. Cracked, damaged or soft seed is quickly infested by the broad-nosed weevil.

YOUNG THIEVES CAUGHT BY POLICEMEN IN PARIS

Paris, July 12,—Patrolman Pierre walked a beat in front of a large popular department store.

Out of the store walked a little girl about fourteen years old, wearing a new dress.

A minute later she was followed by a little boy about twelve years old in a new overcoat.

A little girl about eight, a youngster of six and a blue-eyed child of two followed in order, each wearing conspicuously new and tidy clothes.

The policeman surprised the group as they rejoined a block away.

"Yes, I stole the clothes," the oldest child confessed to the magistrate next morning. "Mama was so poor she never would buy us any."

NOT ALL GLOOM IN RUSSIA

Traveler Writes of Christmas in Moscow That Reminded Her of American Celebrations.

As far as the fairy stories and the simpler, sweeter things in child life go, I found evidence, on a trip I made one snowy Christmas day to a school outside of Moscow, that they are by no means destroyed. I had received an invitation to the Christmas festivities of the school—a gay-colored card designed by the children themselves and signed by the twelve-year-old president of the school soviet. The head of an American manufacturing plant, in Moscow then on business, and a number of relief workers had also been invited, and together we walked five miles out into the country to this school—now the scene of hilarious activity. The manufacturer was immediately pressed into service to help decorate the large Christmas tree that some of the older boys had cut down. The decorations, almost all of them made by the children, were bright bits of things that had been carefully hoarded for the occasion. When I looked up at the American business man, beaming from the top of his stepladder as the children handed up their tinsel, somehow the scene did not appear very different from scenes that were being enacted that day in many an American home.

After dinner there was a play called "The Kingdom of Frost," which told about what happens to a child when he runs away from his parents. It was a highly moral play. The music had been composed by a boy of eleven, the son of a brilliant violinist, and the paper costumes had been made very beautifully indeed by the children. The violinist himself was in the audience, and after the great dance of snowflakes that ended the play he was urged to perform. He asked the children what they wanted to hear. The vote was for "something sad from Tchaikowsky." The violinist objected. He made a little speech, in which he pointed out that this was not an occasion for sad music. They should choose something festive. The children applauded his speech politely and repeated their request. He played Tchaikowsky.—"Children of Moscow," by Anna J. Haines in Asia Magazine.

Wolves "Rushed" Train.

Wolves attacked a train in Bosnia it had just been learned. A train from Dubica for Agram was traveling slowly soon after leaving the station on account of the snow when it was attacked by a large pack of wolves who were maddened by hunger. The animals jumped on the engine and into the coaches, howling desperately. The frightened passengers barricaded and defended themselves with rifles and revolvers. Many wolves were run over and killed, and finally the train, putting on speed, succeeded in getting away from the pack. It arrived at Agram covered with bloodstains and pieces of wolves' flesh.

Christmas After New Year's.

The soviet Russian government has introduced the European calendar, but the church insists upon the old Russian calendar. The result is that the great holidays at the end of the year are celebrated twice. New Year's is observed with great pomp after the European calendar, and Christmas after the old calendar, so that now in Russia Christmas comes after New Year's.

The state participates in this order, so that atheistic Bolshevism on our January 5 closed all its offices for the ecclesiastical Christmas based upon the czarist calendar.

Careless Nurse.

A fashionable mother insisted that the maids in her employ should afford as much consideration to her children as to any one else in the household.

On one occasion a youngster approached his mother with this announcement:

"My piece of bread and butter has dropped on the buttered side."

Whereupon the mother summoned her thus:

"Clarice, you will please to remember that you are to butter Clara's bread on the right side."

Hail Men With "Pep."

"Men with 'pep' rush in where angels fear to tread." Even "in the piping times of peace" they cast "modest stillness and humility" to the fourth remove and "let their action imitate the tigers." They advance upon our civilization like an army with banners. "Brashness" we used to call it, with affectionate contempt and tender pity; "pep" we hail it now, and laud it with loud hosannas.—Henry Ford's Dearborn Independent.

Postponed Repentance.

There was a man out in Wisconsin who went to a revival meeting and was pressed to repent. He wavered for a time and finally arose and said, "Friends, I want to repent and tell how bad I have been, but I dasn't do it when the grand jury is in session."

"The Lord will forgive," the revivalist shouted.

"Probably he will," answered the sinner, "but he ain't on that grand jury."—Boston Transcript.

Unlucky Coincidence.

And here's one about the Quaker whose patriotism got the better of his religious scruples and who went to war. Crawling through No Man's land he spied a husky German. Raising his rifle to his shoulder, he shouted:

"Friend, 'tis most unfortunate for thee, but thee standeth just where I am going to shoot."

And blazed away.—American Legion Weekly.

BRITISH ARISTOCRAT A GIANT

Cousin of Lord Lascelles Nearly Seven Feet in Height and Strong in Proportion.

Had Brian Piers Lascelles lived to attend the wedding of his second cousin and close friend Lord Lascelles to Princess Mary in Westminster abbey, he would undoubtedly have distracted attention from the bridegroom and the royal bride.

Brian Lascelles was a giant and the coffin in which he was laid to rest a short time ago in the family mausoleum of the Lascelles measured nine feet in length.

For Brian Lascelles stood six feet eleven inches in his stockings and was generally known as "the Magdalen Giant," by reason of the attention which he attracted at Oxford while completing his education at Magdalen college. Indeed, in his undergraduate days he used to be included among sights of the university.

Brian Lascelles graduated with honors and, with a taste for natural science and research, he eventually became professor of science at Harrow, and librarian of the college as well as the curator of its museum.

His strength was in keeping with his size and his jaws might almost be described as having been of iron. He gave a curious illustration of this on one occasion.

Much interested in archaeological research he had special theories as to how flint arrow heads had been made, and attending an archaeological meeting one day, he produced from his pocket a partly shaped arrow head of glass. He related that on his way to the meeting he had picked up a piece of a broken bottle and that he had shaped it with his teeth as he came along. He then went on to complete the work by crunching off several successive pieces of the glass with his teeth until he had succeeded in elaborating a well-shaped arrow head.

He had a keen sense of humor and a great stock of anecdotes about the difficulties which he encountered, especially when traveling abroad, in consequence of his height.

Had he lived until the end of last February he would assuredly have been, as a near relative of the bridegroom, one of the most conspicuous figures at the wedding in Westminster abbey of Princess Mary.

Equipment.

"Rastus, I'se gwine get rich. I's done bought me some stock in a nut factory."

"A which kind of factory?"

"A nut factory, which sells de meat of pecans, almonds and sich, already cracked an' picked out. This heah company gwine save money with a new labo'-savin' device which de promotah done tole me about. De nuts am gwine be cracked by trained squirrels which don't charge no wages."

"Is dis heah company already licensed, established an' ready fo' bizness?"

"Yeah, prakitkally—all 'cept trainin' de squirrels."—Life.

Mother's Knowledge Limited.

Helen was at her first party. When refreshments were served, she refused a second helping of ice cream with a polite "No, thank you," although she looked wistful.

"Do have some more, dear," the hostess urged.

"Mother told me I must say 'No, thank you,'" the little girl explained, "but I don't believe she knew how small the dishes were going to be."

Why He Lost Her.

My first love affair happened when I was only in the second grade. There were two good-looking boys in the same class who liked me and whom I liked. But, of course, I liked one better. One day one of the boys went home and said to his mother: "I want to keep my ears clean or Paul will get my girl." Of course every one in town heard about it and I decided I liked Paul the best.—Chicago Journal.

The Empty Bin and Bowl.

The Ukraine, which has been known as the sugar bowl and flour bin of Europe, is pretty nearly empty and it is a question whether the country has enough to keep its own people until the next harvest. The wheat crop last year was hard hit by reason of the absence of the snows which allowed the seed to be frozen in the ground for lack of protection granted by the mantle of snow.

Propriety.

The gay Lothario, having been asked to sing, approached the careful girl.

"Will you accompany me on the piano?" he asked.

"Not without a chaperon," answered the careful girl.

Because she was a very, very careful girl.—American Legion Weekly.

The Sense of Perfection.

"Crimson Gulch isn't improving as fast as I thought it would."

"The town is kind o' held back by pride and patriotism," replied Cactus Joe. "Anybody who'd venture to hint that Crimson Gulch needs any improvements would immediately be so unpopular that he'd lose his influence."

A Fresh Start.

"Jack's married."

"Got through sowing his wild oats, eh?"

"No, he's already started a new crop with his wife's money."—Boston Transcript.

Not Efficient, However.

"The language you use to that mule is perfectly shocking."

"Yes," replied the driver, "it seems to trouble everybody but the mule."—Edinburgh Scotsman.

PARIS ETCHER FOUND ARTIST

Marketed Prints Which Brought Fame to Soldier of the American Expeditionary Force.

Alonzo C. Webb, the American soldier who has won sudden fame in Paris art circles by his distinctive etchings, was content to pass his prints out among his friends. One day, however, while he was having his etchings printed by the old-fashioned process called "taille douce," the printer said: "Why don't you sell these etchings?"

"They're not good enough," replied Webb.

"You're crazy," said the printer; "you wouldn't mind selling them, would you? Don't you need the money?"

"Yes, God knows I need it, but I never thought of selling these things," rejoined Webb.

The old man gave Webb a note to a dealer in the Rue de Rivoli who took "on depot" one each of five prints. The very next day Webb received a letter at his home at Bellevue, asking for three more to replace those the dealer had sold the first day.

"That must have been a happy morning at Bellevue," I remarked, somewhat stirred at this turning point in the life story.

"Not especially," Webb replied. "I'm partly Scotch and don't often get excited. I take good luck just as I take bad. I rarely even tell about good luck."

"But don't you deprive yourself of a delightful thrill?"

"The pleasure is no less in the aggregate. I take it in a quieter form; it lasts longer and there is no reaction."—Charles H. Grasty in the New York Times.

HAVE NO WORRY ABOUT DATES

In Fortunate Albania They Knew Nothing of Such Things as Calendars or Clocks.

Calendars and clocks are luxuries in Albania. The untutored peasantry know only three periods of time—morning, noon and night, and two seasons of the year, winter and summer. Days and dates are Sanskrit to them. Nor have they any conception of distances. When a traveler asks an Albanian the distance of one point from another, he never answers in miles or kilometers, but "it is half a day, it is two days, it is a week." When an Albanian makes an appointment, he is considered to have kept it if he comes within two or three hours of the time set.

With the absence of calendars, the people naturally do not know their correct ages, especially those in the country districts. In this respect the women of Albania enjoy an advantage over their sisters in foreign countries who guard so jealously the secret of their years. Often the age of an Albanian woman is unknown even to herself.

Revised Ages of Man.

At Five—Nobody loves me. I'm going out in the garden and eat worms.

At Fifteen—She does not love me. I shall hang myself in her father's garage.

At Twenty—The world does not understand me. Life is a failure.

At Thirty-five—Why didn't I marry Mabel instead of Helen. Mabel always understood me.

At Forty-Five—Now, if I were President of the United States I would—

At Sixty—This isn't such a bad old world after all.

At Seventy—I expect to see a great improvement in conditions in the next 20 or 30 years.

At Eighty—Johnny, tell your mother that her grandma and I have gone to the cabaret.—New York Sun.

Arabs Use Opium Bait.

A novel way of catching fish by Arabs was described by Lieutenant Commander A. S. Elwell-Sutton in describing the work of the British gunboats on the river Tigris above Bagdad.

The natives, there, he said, laid a ground bait of lumps of dough containing a small quantity of opium. The fish swallowed that and, becoming stupefied, floated about with their white bellies uppermost. Arabs went in pursuit of them on blown-out sheepskins which they maneuvered with their feet while the hands were free to hold the landing net.

To Make Scientific Investigations.

Mountain miners in the Andes do heavy labor in a rarefied atmosphere that makes the slightest effort fatiguing to newcomers, says the Scientific American, and Canadian scientists are in Peru to discover whether this immunity of the miners is due to changes in the blood or to other functions. The scientists will yield their own blood, both at sea level and at three-miles altitude, and the samples will go to our universities for analysis.

France Encourages Aviation.

France recognizes the value of air travel and its importance to the future. She has budgeted 154,878,000 francs for civilian aviation for the year 1922. Naturally, Paris is the great center of French commercial aviation, the Le Bourget airdrome in the suburbs taking on the appearance of a busy railway terminal. Airplanes to and from London (five departures daily) and Brussels carry the largest number of passengers.

Take a Lesson From Big Business

Every person who has money to spend, much or little, can profit from this lesson.

Every large business concern has a purchasing agent or professional buyer. It is his job to buy to best adventage. He must keep posted on what the firm needs, he must know values and prices and sources of supply. He is constantly gathering information to help him in his work and he reads carefully all the advertisements of manufacturers from whom he might purchase.

The whole secret of professional buying, you see, is information. The man with most information can buy to best advantage.

Apply this to your own case. Whether you are purchasing manager of a family or simply buying for your own personal needs, you must have information. The place to get it is in newspaper advertisements.

Read the advertisements regularly. They will tell you more about qualities and styles and values than you could ever learn otherwise. They will tell you where and when to find the right thing for which you have been searching.

Reading advertisements is time profitably spent. It will make your money go farther and bring you unthought of comforts and convenience.

COURT TO MAKE INSPECTION TRIP

WILL CHECK UP DAMAGES DONE IN SUNDAY'S FLOOD

FUND IS NOW OVERDRAWN

Court Faces Hard Problem About Bridges—Will Need the Cooperation of Township Boards.

The members of the county court—Judges E. T Bailey, Henry Moore and C. E. Walker left Maryville this afternoon for an inspection trip over a part of the Western Nodaway County to view the damage done to bridges in Sunday's flood. The court started for the Elkhorn creek. It is expected other inspection trips will be made to other sections of the county.

The county bridge fund is estimated by County Clerk Fred Smith to be at present $70,000 overdrawn. The court has made no estimate as to the amount of damages to bridges but they are without funds at all to do anything. George S. Miller, county highway engineer, has estimated the damages to the bridges in the neighborhood of $150,000.

The court intends by the cooperation of the township boards and the neighbors along each bridge to keep open the main roads. The court has a very small supply of lumber material on hand at present. They have seven cars of lumber on the way and the bill for one of the cars has been received but the car has not arrived yet owing to the strike of the railway men.

It is probable that a meeting of the members of county court with the various township boards will be held to see what can be done about reparing and putting in bridges.

The Polk township board is cooperating with the fixed up two bridges belongong to the county and if they can get lumber material from the county will repair other bridges in the township. Township boards will have to follow the example of Polk township if anything is done in getting the bridges in shape.

REDISTRICTING FOR SOUTH M. E. CHURCH

THE REV. FRANK MAPEL'S DISTRICT TO BE DISCONTINUED

NUMBER MADE THREE LESS

Will Relieve Three Men for Pastors and Allow Better Pay and Homes

Three of the districts of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, in Northern Missouri are to be dissolved this year and absorbed by other districts. The Gallatin district, of which the Rev. Frank J. Mapel of Maryville is presiding elder, is one of these. It will be absorbed by the Chillicothe and St. Joseph districts. Lineville, Edinburg, Jamesport, Mooreaville, Lock Springs, Gallatin, Jameson, McFall and Pattonsburg charges will become part of the Chillicothe district. The remaining five charges, Clarksdale, Denver, Maysville, Albany and New Hampton, will become part of the St. Joseph district, to which Maryville belongs.

The St. Charles district will be absorbed by the Hannibal and Mexico districts.

The Macon District will be absorbed by the Hannibal and Chillicothe districts.

The redistricting was made on recommendation of a committee that had the matter in charge for making an investigation.

Good district parsonages will be provided the presiding elders and the reduction in number of districts from nine to six will strengthen the salaries and at the same time three preachers will be released to the pastorate. The committee points out increase of telephone facilities, modern roads and the automobile, together with a highly trained ministry, as reason for enlarging the districts, as in the earlier days means of transit and a ministry with less preparation called for closer oversight.

Monday noon the relatives of the Rev. Father John J. Jermain who live near Conception received a wire stating that their brother was killed Sunday night by an electric wire. Owing to the condition of the wires all over the country particulars could not be obtained. It is, however, supposed that it happened in the terrible storm of Sunday night.

The funeral will occur Thursday morning at 9:00 when the solemn services will be held at the Abbey Church, after which the remains will be laid to rest in St. Columba's cemetery. It is not yet decided who will conduct the funeral, but quite a number of priests are expected to honor the funeral by their presence as Father Jermain was well liked all over. Another brother of Father Jermain was ordained at Conception last year and is stationed in Des Moines.

LARGE CROWD ATTENDED BASKET DINNER AT WILCOX

There Was An Abundance of Chicken and Everything Else One Could Desire to Eat

More than 200 persons attended Sunday the all-day meeting and basket dinner at the Methodist Church at Wilcox. The dinner was a community affair. Many persons from other denominations attended. It is said that the chicken was cooked in every conceivable way and everything that one could want besides chicken was there and in abundance.

Wilcox has a kind of co-operative arrangement in its churches. Neither of them has preaching every Sunday and it is arranged that they alternate with their services so that the people may have a chance to attend every Sunday as nearly as possible.

The quarterly conference of the Methodist Church was held Sunday, with Dr. H. D. Thompson, presiding elder, present. Dr. Thompson preached both in the morning and the afternoon.

The Rev. J. W. Bone of St. Joseph has charge of the Wilcox Methodist Church since the resignation of the Rev. J. E. Conder, which took place early in the spring. Mr. Conder was present at the meeting Sunday.

MICHELIN

Michelin Tire Co. Policy

We have always made one quality only—the best, believing that this is the only way in which we can make the name MICHELIN of greatest value to the motorist, to the tire dealer, and to ourselves.

We sell NO tires to car manufacturers—believing that it is unfair to tire dealers and motorists alike to make them pay to offset unremunerative prices granted car makers.

These things have been true, are true, and will continue to be true of Michelin's policy.

Ever since Michelin introduced the world's first pneumatic automobile tire, it HAS been and IS our ambition to be leaders in standing for the things that will most benefit the public and the dealers who support us.
